Going to the dentist should be a positive experience, a philosophy that permeates every aspect of Fox Dental's customer service approach. From the moment patients enter the office, they are treated with the utmost respect and consideration. If they're cold, feeling under the weather or need a little TLC, a warm, fuzzy blanket or neck pillow can help make treatments more comfortable; if they're nervous, they need only look out the windows where bird feeders and flowers have been strategically placed to add a sense of natural calm.

"We want every patient who comes to us to feel welcomed," explains Dr. Becky Fox, D.M.D., FAGD. "One of the ways we achieve that goal is through the environment and our office culture. We've designed a space that is conducive to relaxation and listening to patient concerns and desires. We have found over time this leads to a higher degree of comfort between patients and team members."

As a solo practitioner, Dr. Fox sees every patient who receives treatment during each visit, from quizzical little kids (whose first introduction to the practice is a non-invasive "teddy bear tour") to adults who want to maintain their smiles for a lifetime. "I'm in the business of helping people," she explains. "Patients see me every time, allowing me to offer incredibly individualized service and optimal care. They direct their level of treatment, from routine cleanings to cosmetic dentistry. In the end, the patients are in charge of their dentistry-related wants and needs; and I'm here to non-judgmentally help them accomplish their objectives."

Fox Dental is equipped with the most advanced technology on the market, enabling Dr. Fox to efficiently perform treatments such as one-visit CEREC crowns, veneers, teeth whitening, restoring implants and other dental requirements and emergencies. Fox Dental practices environmentally-conscious dentistry in many ways, from utilizing digital x-rays to paperless computerized systems. Says Dr. Fox, "We strive to be respectful and sensitive not only to our patients, but to the environment also."

Though the practice limits its overall number of patients to maintain a maximum level of customer service, there are new openings currently available for a limited time.
